CASE STUDY

Service Sector: Integrated Security Systems (Education)

Client: College - Surrey

Overview

ISD-Tech has been awarded a multi-discipline security project for one of Surrey's top colleges.

The college, which was founded in the 18th century, provides education services to around 1,300 full time students from a wide geographic area including Surrey and East Berkshire but also Middlesex and the West. The college has notable successes in the academic, commercial, artistic, dramatic, sporting and media fields.

The Brief

The client's original system consisted of multiple stand-alone CCTV, access control and intrusion detection systems, with these systems becoming very difficult to manage and maintain. The overall system was based on a cost effective phased upgrade program with the final solution providing the client with a site wide, network based CCTV, access control and intrusion detection system. This allows the systems to be managed centrally from the IT department and on a more local basis by individual departments across the site.

The finished system has helped reduce the ongoing cost of ownership and has streamlined the administration of CCTV footage along with access control with a very powerful spend to save program which ISD-Tech has tailor-made for our client's budget.

Though this project involved working within the challenging environment of a live education facility, the project was completed on time and within budget and has been delivered in a multi-phased roll out with the first two phases now complete.

The system design and infrastructure that has been deployed across the college offers a cost effective and flexible solution with the ability to expand the security systems across the campus in future, with very little impact on the environment and budgetary constraints.

As the final part of this project, ISD-Tech has provided a tailored maintenance and support contract for the electronic security on this site. This has greatly assisted the client with maintenance and reactive costs for their existing site wide systems over a 3-5 year period.

We will be happy to provide contact details to obtain references for this or any of our other completed projects.
